BULLETIN

MISSIONAL MOMENTUM!

In the last two months, a number of missional events were held at both Grace I and Grace II.

12th August – The Sanctuary at Grace II was packed with many people from the community. It was a special Hokkien Outreach. We thank God 19 people accepted the Lord Jesus Christ!

11th September – We had a special outreach event for the community at Grace I. More than 210 people turned up and 5 people accepted the Lord Jesus Christ.

13th September – A special event for the community was held at Grace II. About 170 people were there and 7 people accepted the Lord.

15th September – A special mid-autumn gathering organized by the China Ministry drew close to 100 people and around 60 of them are pre-believers from China.

16th September – A mid-autumn dinner outreach was organized and more than 590 people were at the function. We thank God that 30 people accepted the Lord.

22nd September – A special outreach with Li Nanxing was packed with 1210 people at Grace I. 350 people had dinner together that same evening. And a total of 12 people accepted the Lord.

I am so thankful for the good responses to all these special outreach events.

Basically, it tells me two important things:

Firstly, we are making good connections with the people in our community. They are now more open and beginning to see the church in a more positive perspective. In other words, the works that we have been 'ploughing, sowing and watering' in the community are bearing fruits.

Secondly, it also shows that Gracians are reaching out, befriending, making connections, inviting people, and sharing the gospel. Our people are missional! People from the community turned up because they are connected with someone in Grace Assembly. So Gracians, wherever they may be, are making an impact with their lives.

We thank God that the Missional Momentum is moving forward strongly. May the Lord continue to use every Gracian to impact the people where God has placed them.

To God be the glory!

OCTOBER PRAYER POINTERS

PRAYER FOR OUR NATION!

In view of the recent hot topic on the repeal of Section 377A of the Penal Code, let us pray:

1. For the 'Shalom' (total well-being) of Singapore for scripture exhorts us to "...seek the welfare of the city." (Jeremiah 29:7) Pray the Lord will continue to bless our nation with His divine favour and watch over Singapore from generation to generation!
2. That God will protect the institutions of marriage and family because they are indispensable for the well-being of future generations and the flourishing of our society.
3. That the Church in Singapore will remain committed to upholding and promoting traditional family values that are the building blocks of our nation.
4. That the church will reach out to everyone with the love of Jesus including those struggling with same sex attraction.
5. That Section 377A of the Penal Code will be retained for the good of our nation.

INTRODUCING GRACE MISSIONAL COLLEGE MODULE IN OCTOBER

BIBT425: NEW TESTAMENT SURVEY

18-20 October

Professor: Rev Bart Horner

This module provides a basic introduction to the biblical, theological and historical foundation of Christian Apologetics. It explores the common objections and challenges to the Christian faith and beliefs.

It equips learners to respond and defend the Christian truth in a missional and cultural context.

Topics generally covered are:

Christian Doctrines & Secular Philosophies/Theories

Doctrinal Teaching: Is the Bible reliable? Can we trust the Word of God? How real is Jesus?

Problem of Evil – Why so much evil if God is good?

Homosexuality – What the Bible has to say about it?

Pain, Suffering & Death – Why God allows us to suffer?

Miracles – Do they exist?

Heaven & Heaven – How real is it?

Rev Bart Horner holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Pastoral Studies from Southwestern Assemblies of God in Waxahachie, Texas, and a Master of Divinity Degree from Regent University in Virginia Beach, Virginia, and a Master of Science Degree in Marriage and Family Counselling from Columbus State University. Rev Bart was ordained to the ministry in 1989 and served as associate pastor to two Assembly of God churches in Norfolk, Virginia, and later as senior pastor of a Baptist church in Bristol, Tennessee. He was commissioned as an Army Chaplain in 1995 and was at the rank of Major in 2016 before his retirement.

He is also known for his numerous seminars in marriage strengthening, marriage preparation, and adultery recovery. He has written many articles for different Army publications and has served as a resource consultant and lecturer at retreats and seminary doctoral programs. In his ministerial experience, particularly as a chaplain, he has not only been involved with crisis counselling circumstances, but with practically every spiritual situation imaginable, and with people from all walks of life, leading them into a relationship with Christ and through a discipleship programme to a full life with Christ. In the face of these challenges, he has learned to saturate himself with the knowledge of the Word of God that he might “contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints” (Jude 3) and “always be ready to give a defense to everyone who asks you a reason for the hope that is in you” (1 Peter 3:15).

Grace Family Life Ministry Library is proud to present the following books and DVD collections:

THE POWER OF A PARENT'S WORDS Dr H. Norman Wright

Your words can bruise or build!

This book will show you how to recognize dysfunctional patterns you may have inherited from your own parents.

Learn healthy, functional methods of communication, discover your child's personality type, understand his or her unique communication style, and apply that knowledge to your daily interactions.

Learn how you can use loving, effective communication to increase your child's self-esteem and reduce the frustrations of parenting

A SNOODLE'S TALE (DVD) VeggieTales

This DVD contains two stories, both focused on helping children feel comfortable in their own skins.

"Dr. Jiggle and Mr. Sly" focuses on a sweet soul who loves to dance but is embarrassed by his jiggly body. When the neighbors expose him, they encourage him to dance as himself, reminding him that God loves him as he is.

The Snoodle episode is narrated with a Dr. Seussian rhyme, describing a young Snoodle ridiculed by older Snoodles to the degree that he removes himself to get away from the criticism. He is taught dignity and given self-confidence when he encounters God.

A lesson in self-worth

POSITIVE PARENTING (CD) Pastor Benny Ho

In an increasingly demanding world where so much is expected of us, we rush through hectic schedules and our children are also not spared from this lifestyle.

This series seeks to explore how we can raise our children in an atmosphere that is positive and uplifting.

Topics in this series include Divided Heart, Divided Home and Positive Parenting.

Can an R21 book help my kids grow in faith?

And these words that I command you today shall be on your heart. You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, and when you walk by the way, and when you lie down, and when you rise. – Deuteronomy 6:6-7

It's tough being a Christian parent. Our kids will face the greatest persecution any generation has ever faced. They're growing up in a time where an increasing tolerance for sin is fast becoming an intolerance for God's laws.

As Christian parents, we need to arm our kids with the Word of God, so they can stand firm in their faith and fight the good fight.

But let's face it. The Bible is a book filled with rape, pillage, violence, incest and bloody deaths. It would be deemed R21 on every entertainment channel.

So how do we expose our children to such a book and tell them it's God's infallible Word? Here are some principles my husband and I found useful in helping our children do just that.

1. Trust the Word of God. Don't worry about what the world deems age-appropriate. John 1:1 says Jesus is the Word of God. When your kids read the Bible, the power of Christ permeates their senses and helps them know Him. Honestly, there were moments when I cringed when I had to read some of the stories to my kids. My son, Daniel, was angry that Abraham tried to kill his son, Isaac. Sarah hated how Abraham treated Ishmael. I was glad the Bible has caused such a reaction and my kids were thinking about God's Word for days. And I trust the Word to work in their lives. I know the Holy Spirit would touch their hearts in a deeper way than my most eloquent explanations ever could. And I'd rather they enjoy the Bible and feel comfortable with its content, than feel it's an irrelevant, religious book.
2. Explain it at their level, in simplicity. What I love about the Bible is how much history there is. How it doesn't skip the bad parts and failures. When we read the stories of old, we also look for YouTube historical findings to support what the Bible says. We discuss the materials of the temple and how God made laws for every aspect of life in the Old Testament, not just laws pertaining to religious rituals. I had the benefit of a theology degree to aid me with my explanations. To explain these things to your kids, you'll have to study the Bible and understand it. If you love God's Word, your kids will mirror that love.
3. Explain the Bible literally. As parents we can sometimes be so eager to explain the deeper spiritual meanings of the Bible that we miss the point altogether. I've found that reading the Bible and then asking my kids what it means, works best. And many times, my kids' learnings have been fresh revelations to me.
4. Don't squelch questioning. I've heard parents tell their kids that the Bible is God's Word and it shouldn't be questioned. My daughter decided after we read about the plagues in Exodus, that God was cruel. She didn't want to pray for a week. When we did quiet time, she'd sit there silently, arms folded, protesting. Honestly, when I read Psalms, there are portions where I can imagine David yelling his songs towards heaven in anger and behaving like Sarah—throwing tantrums and asking God what on earth He was thinking. After a while, she relented and prayed.

It's not wrong for our kids to question the Word of God and His actions. Hunger for God's Word starts with curiosity and a desire to understand and discover not only what the Bible says but the heart of God behind the words. By asking these tough questions, our children are opening up their hearts to the Holy Spirit who will reveal Himself to them in a deep and meaningful way.

5. Read the Word of God out loud. The Bible says that faith comes from hearing the Word of God (Romans 10:17). When you read the scripture, it engages all your senses. Your eyes see the Word of God and you become enlightened (Psalm 19:8). Your mouth speaks the Word of God, which acts as a double-edged sword, piercing through your soul and spirit and discerns the thoughts and intents of your heart (Hebrews 4:12). Your ears hear the Word of God that causes faith to grow. It's a powerful process—just reading the scriptures out loud with your kids.
6. Teach your kids to meditate on the Word of God. Joshua 1:8 says to meditate on God's Word day and night. The word "meditate" is not a passive word that means quiet contemplation. It's "Hagah", which, in its original form, is an onomatopoeia for what a hungry lion does when he's seeking food. It's roaring out loud and devouring ferociously. It means repeating the words out loud, feverishly. When my kids are sleeping, I sometimes lie in bed next to them and repeat Bible verses over them. It seeps into their spirits and their subconscious minds.

So how do you start your kids on the Bible? How about at the beginning, with Genesis? It's a science and history lesson, all in one. Try not to dumb down or sanitize the Bible. I've found that using a simple version, like The Message, with present-day lingo, helps.

If you want to raise kids after God's own heart, teach them to read the Word of God today. Because without faith it is impossible to please God. And faith comes by hearing the Word of God. (Hebrews 11:6)

The Prodigal Daughter

BY REV. DR. WILLIAM WAN

One wayward daughter, two broken-hearted parents and a heartrending story about their patient wait for her return

Li-Lynn was born in Canada when I was a graduate student in British Columbia. She was about one-year-old when we returned to Singapore. As a pre-schooler, she was affectionately nicknamed “Rolly-Polly,” reflecting her adorable personality.

In Canada, she was incredibly popular with her classmates, did exceptionally well in her studies and was placed in advanced classes among the crème de la crème. There was no hint at all that a personality sea change was about to take place.

When we relocated to Washington DC in the United States, she was enrolled in the best High School in the district – one where graduates ended up in Ivy League schools. She was a straight A-student, doing advanced courses when, almost overnight, she became moody and reticent, no longer bubbly and loquacious.

Without warning, she morphed from a free-spirited butterfly into a melancholic caterpillar. She started to wear black lipsticks and boots; her hair was spiked, half-shaved and dyed in rainbow colours; and her ears pierced and studded in strange-looking rings. She started to smoke, listened to heavy metal music and locked herself in the bedroom that appeared to have been hit by a tornado.

We tried to reach out to her to no avail. She began to play truant at school and often did not come home till way past sunset, even though her school dismissed students in the late afternoon. It was a matter of time before her grades started to free-fall.

Every time we tried to engage her, we ended up in the war zone. There was absolutely nothing we could do or say to her that would make any difference. We watched helplessly as she slid away from us into a world of teenage drug and sex counterculture. We knew we had lost her, both emotionally and psychologically. But the worst was yet to come. One beautiful spring morning, the very day she turned 16, she came down from her bedroom with a packed bag. “Dad,” she announced, “Today, I am 16. And according to the law, I am an adult and I can live on my own. I am going to Canada. Can you please take me to the bus station?”

We tried to dissuade her but she kept saying, “It’s got nothing to do with you. You are good parents. It is just me. I need to find my own space and be my own person. I need to find myself. I just need to go...”

“But where are you going and how are you going to take care of yourself? And what will you do with school?” We queried so desperately. “Oh... schools are for the birds! Don’t worry, I will find something to do. I don’t need much. I can survive. Maybe you can get me a bus ticket and lend me a few dollars to get started. That is all I need. I have some friends there. I will find a job. I will be ok.”

I remember thinking to myself, “She is gutsy!” And ironically, I found myself admiring her single-minded courage and conviction. “Do you really have to leave?” her mother tearfully pleaded. “Yes,” she replied, “That is best for me and for you. This way, you don’t have to look at me with such hurt feelings and I don’t have to see you feeling so hurt.”

The next day, we took her to the Greyhound bus station at her request and sent her off. For the next several months, my wife would go to her room every day to weep silently for our daughter. She was plagued by guilt. We kept asking ourselves, “How could she be so determined to leave her parents? Why would she do that? What did we do wrong?”

The questions cascaded endlessly from within our wounded hearts. We have given her everything we could afford. Most of all, we thought we have given her our unreserved love, a comfortable middle-class home, a great school in a beautiful suburb...what else did she want from us?

Several weeks after Li-Lynn left, she called to say that she was fine. Her friends had helped her get a job as a waitress in a restaurant. She was also planning on going to night school to complete her high school diploma. As it happened, I was on the board of an organisation in Toronto which required me to attend board meetings twice a year. For the next three years, I visited her at least twice a year. We kept our communication lines open, and we would call and write to each other. I could see that she struggled to live on her own as a teenager. She was making enough to live just below the poverty line. “Do you need some money?” I would ask each time we met. “No, thank you,” was her standard reply. “I will manage.”

When she was about 19, she broke the news to me over the phone. “Dad,” she whispered, “I am pregnant!” Everything seemed to stand still at that moment. I did not know how to respond and the silence was palpable. “Who is the man?” I eventually found my voice. “You don’t know him. But would you please marry us?”

“...we have no full control over our kids’ lives and destinies. We can only lay a good foundation when they were young and trust that the stormy teenage years will blow over, leaving the foundation intact.”

“...in the worst of situations, do not blame yourselves if in fact you have invested time and effort in your children when they were young.”

“...never ever give up on the child. Rebellion is only for a season. Like any storm of life, it will pass. Be patient and wait for it to pass.”

“...love your children unconditionally. We love them not only because they are ‘good,’ but even when they are ‘bad.’ We should love them not only because they are successful in their academic pursuits, but love them all the more when they fail.”

It was like a Halloween party except that the groom was in kilts and the bride was in a Chinese cheongsam. All the guests in this one-room school house where the civil marriage took place looked stoned. It was clearly a community of teen drug abusers. And our daughter was one of them except that she was five months' pregnant and getting married!

The marriage failed within three years. And that was a blessing in disguise, as it turns out. "I did not know what I had until I tried to set up a home for my kid. It was then that I realised that I had given up a lovely parental home for a very dysfunctional home. It dawned on me that you were right but I did not listen. I want to make you happy again. I am going back to school for the sake of my son!"

I read the letter again and again, and intuitively realised that our prayers were finally answered. Our girl has finally seen the light! It has been seven years since she left us, and now with a two-year-old son in tow, she was determined to recover what she had lost. The nightmare was over and she had started to dream again.

Today, Li-Lyn has a PhD and is Asst Professor at Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia in Canada. Her son is 15 and doing extremely well in school. So what are the lessons from our experience with this prodigal daughter?

First, we have no full control over our kids' lives and destinies. We can only lay a good foundation when they are young and trust that the stormy teenage years will blow over, leaving the foundation intact. Li-Lynn has often said to us, "You have raised me well, for even in my worst rebellion, I knew the difference between right and wrong."

Second, in the worst of situations, do not blame yourselves if in fact you have invested time and effort in your children when they were young. "I needed to go through these experiences to grow up," Li-Lynn would say. "Don't blame yourselves because I rebelled. I couldn't have grown in any other way."

Third, never ever give up on the child. Rebellion is only for a season. Like any storm of life, it will pass. Be patient and wait for it to pass. The duration of the storm varies from case to case. In our case, it was seven long years, but we knew that after the rain, there would be sunshine.

Fourth, love your children unconditionally. We love them not only because they are "good," but even when they are "bad." We should love them not only because they are successful in their academic pursuits, but love them all the more when they fail.

Today, Li-Lynn is the most affectionate of our three grown-up children. The best compliment from her is, "Dad and Mom, thank you for always being there for me!"

A FATHER'S DIARY

Bonding Times

BY FRANCIS LEE

Two years ago, I attended the 'Date with Dad' programme with my daughter, which was organised by R-AGE. It left a deep impression on me and my daughter. Since then, my wife and I have attempted to make it a point to regularly spend time with my daughter and our two other boys.

We go for bicycle rides, walks, movies, simple meals or desserts. We use the time to connect with each other beyond the day-to-day. Our daily interactions at home are important as well to maintain our family relationships and keep everyone updated. But these special dates are the ones that allow us to have deeper and uninterrupted conversations between parent and child.

It may be a little awkward at the start but my children are beginning to love it. You can go along with the activities they suggest. Or share your preferences too. You'll find that your children will also want to make these special outings memorable for you and them. Start today and make an appointment with your child before the end of the day. Enjoy!

GRATITUDE:

Celebrating 20 years of serving the community.

In October 1998, following the example shown in the Parable of the Good Samaritan in Luke 10, Grace Assembly of God tasked Pastor Calvin Lee to start REACH Community Services Society (RCSS). As her first Executive Director, Pastor Lee led a small team of social workers and counsellors to reach out with the compassionate love of Christ, to help the hurting and needy in our community who were not able to receive help directly from the Church. "REACH" was coined, and it stood for Reaching out Earnestly As Christ Heals.

Over the past 20 years, RCSS has offered community care and support services to individuals and families through various community programmes and projects, reaching out to the socially vulnerable, the least, the lost and the lonely regardless of their race, language, orientation or religion. While it started out as a single family service centre in Bishan, RCSS progressively expanded to include special programmes for youth, counselling and seniors. The journey of faith was to walk in obedience, and to be faithful over those few things given to do, and the Master rewarded with more and more opened doors for growth. By the end of 2018, RCSS will offer four key social services through six community touchpoints around Singapore.

In the past year alone, RCSS, through her four key social services, impacted more than 3,500 lives—made possible through the hard work of staff, volunteers and donors offering their time, talent and treasures. The Church provided the spiritual cover and mobilised members to participate in this social service ministry. These are good works for His Kingdom, and presents the Church as a contrast community. With the expansion of the Community Befriending Program (CBP), where RCSS is the appointed service provider for Tanjong Pagar, Hong Kah North and Pioneer Constituencies, the number of people the Church is able to impact is expected to significantly increase in the coming years.

To celebrate her 20th anniversary, and in conjunction with the annual Volunteer Appreciation event, RCSS will return to her birthplace at 355 Tanglin Road. All members of Grace Assembly of God are welcome to celebrate this milestone.

Come join us on 20 October 2018 at 9.30am in Bethel Hall, Level 3 for a thanksgiving service – Gratitude.

Kindly RSVP at <http://bit.ly/REACH20Anni> (Lunch will be provided)

TESTIMONY FROM REACH Senior

Over 60 years old, Mdm Eng* was previously a hawker but had to quit to take care of her husband battling with chronic illness. Facing much stress as a caregiver, she lost her purpose in life, and felt lonely and isolated. Her turning point came when she was introduced to REACH Senior by a friend. Now, with her newfound purpose, she no longer feels aimless and lonely as she is actively and meaningfully involved in both the Community Cafe and Befriender Programme as a volunteer, transforming her countenance entirely

'B'ELONGING IN REGION B STRONG LEADERS MAKE A STRONG REGION!

BY VICTOR YEN

It was pretty difficult listening to Pastor Kenny on this particular Saturday Morning on 25 August. At least for me (and a few others, I hope). You see, he was wearing a Manchester City jersey.

But one must not pre-judge (or judge?) out of context. I concede that matches do not kick off until late at night. This regional Grace Missional Group (GMG) Leaders' meeting seemed more like a pugilistic gathering of martial arts enthusiasts. We might not be on a mountain but there was an anticipation of what's-to-come and the 'sizing up' of each other in Galilee Hall. After all, most of us really did not know most of us. And here we were, more than 40 GMG leaders came to find out a bit more about our strategic roles in light of Grace Assembly of God's (AOG) overarching mission.

Ok... 'strategic' can be such a highfalutin word (like the word 'highfalutin') but knowing who we are and where we were from, is an important first step. Pastor Kenny, our Region B-for-Big-Boss, welcomed everyone warmly and jogged us through Church History 101. I discovered that I really did not know a lot about our church. In a nutshell, we have had a Founder and five Senior Pastors/Leaders in our almost-68 years of existence; and Grace AOG is unique because we are a trans-generational church, which means that we house at least four generations under one roof, with targeted services and activities for everyone.

'B'eyond 'B'usiness: 'B'etterment

Nevertheless, church is more than a community club. Pastor Peter Lim, our Region B-for-Boss, highlighted that the Church must be "unstoppable, spiritually vibrant and a radiant community!" The key, as urged by Pastor Kenny, is for leaders to have a good relationship with Father God. "That's our KPI, in a language that Singaporeans know best," he said. When we are motivated by the love of God, we unlock the key to growth and renewal.

To be fair, I believe Pastors Kenny and Peter would be most uncomfortable with the title 'boss'. Leadership can take on several models and Jesus offers us the best model in servant leadership. Through leading with humility and serving with passion, Region B has immense potential to be influential and impactful. We are the Southerners, geographically the smallest but by the grace of God, we have the most number of GMGs at 30 presently.

The leaders spent the remaining time connecting on a deeper level. Bro Kenneth Kwan and Sis Janelle Kwok conducted fun icebreakers, before we broke up into smaller groups for more intimate sharing and some serious eating. My 'kampong' of four GMGs, led by Bro Tan Kok Lin, talked about the different demographics of each group, as well as discussed on how best to improve the way we engage with members. I am inspired by some insights on how to involve children more at GMG meetings and where to get biblical resources. There is much to learn from each other.

It was heartening to see many leaders at the meeting, which took more than a month to schedule. It is so true (and sad) that we lead such busy lives that another slot into our schedule can understandably be disruptive. However, I am glad I made time for this fruitful session to hear from our pastors and to fellowship with other Region B leaders. Through mutual support, we can go further together. I guess Bro Kok Lin summed it up best in his prayer for us, by quoting from Romans 1: 11-12: "I long to see you so that I may impart to you some spiritual gift to make you strong— that is, that you and I may be mutually encouraged by each other's faith."

1. 43 Region B GMG Champions (Leaders) and some of their spouses gather for their second pugilistic (regional) gathering in 2018.
2. Getting to know one another just by asking simple questions!
- 3.-4. Sharing GMG "best practices" and struggles in smaller, more intimate groupings.
5. Well-deserved feast and fellowship in their smaller regional groupings

“KEEP THE FIRE BURNING” – A SINGLES EVENT

BY SIS LINGER ABELLANA

In our modern society, singles are always thinking about accomplishing many things. But we don't have unlimited time, resources and energy. As a single child of God, how do we keep the flame in our heart to serve the Lord amidst all our plans for the future, career developments, preparations and transitions?

29 July 2018 was the second time that GFM's Singles Ministry was given an opportunity to once again, rekindle the zeal that we have for our Lord. The yearly gathering was held at Victory Room in GII.

Bro Nap Cristobal, one of the GFM Exco leaders, opened the event with a reminder for us to walk in close fellowship with God every day so that our strength will be replenished. The games led by Youth Leader, Sis Shekinah, also broke the ice with much laughter.

An uplifting message was shared by one of the leaders, Bro Angel Cruz, which was captured from the book of Romans on how to not lack zeal in serving the Lord. "Be joyful in hope, patient in affliction, faithful in prayer." Romans 12: 12. Bro Cruz emphasized that we should never let the fire in our heart go out because God wants us to be flames with a burning desire to be the light for others, and that we should never be lacking in zeal and must always be excited about our faith as we serve the Lord. We must keep our service alive for the Lord with a fervent spirit. The sense of satisfaction in serving Christ must prevail over the satisfaction that this world can offer. The message ended with a powerful reminder that everything we do in the body of Christ is all for His glory. The reflection of Christ in our lives was given emphasis. As we serve people, they should be directed to the one who transforms us and they will also give honour to our Lord Jesus Christ.

A traditional Filipino buffet meal called "Boodle Fight" followed. It's a military-inspired way of enjoying Filipino dishes prepared on banana leaves openly spread over a long table and shared together without cutlery. This was another way of showing the unity within the ministry.

The event was closed by Ps Rose Cristobal with one powerful word which served as a great reminder to everyone—"purity" (of our heart). At the core of our service, we were reminded to stay pure before the Lord.

Our heart was full as we received messages of guidance and reminders from our leaders appointed by God. They served as encouragement for us to keep our fire burning for the Lord through the power of the Holy Spirit. We praise the Lord for this great day of celebration!

NEPAL MEDICAL MISSIONS TRIP BY STEVEN AND JESSIE CHOW

(25 AUGUST – 1 SEPTEMBER 2018)

The medical camp ran smoothly despite initial hiccups with drug supplies and camp organisation. We saw close to 3,500 patients and conducted many minor surgical procedures, dental extractions, cannulation of hydroceles, supplied presbyopic glasses and dispensed thousands of vitamins and medicines. The local authority received reports on how we helped the villagers with quality medical care. They are happy to work with Grace Missions medical team and it paves the way for the local authority to work with Christian groups in future.

After the trip, we reflected on how much we have learnt from this fruitful experience and picked up some practical spiritual habits for our daily life. We learned not to get anxious and complain when faced with difficulties. We also learned to work together in unity and serve wholeheartedly with joy, giving our best to the Lord. Serving in a farming village also taught us to be contented with what we have. Nothing will stop us from joining the next mission trip as it's a joy to serve the local community and have the opportunity to work with our church planter to do more community penetration for the expansion of His Kingdom.

It was wonderful to be back in Nepal again from 25 August to 1 September. Our last trip was in 2012. We witnessed how God has shown much favour upon this nation. Prior to the trip, the team met up to discuss our roles at the medical camp. Preparation work started 6 months earlier, including ordering medicines for 3,500 patients for the medical camp, packing surgical supplies and diagnostic equipment etc. With the anticipated, intense work load, the team needed to prepare ourselves both physically and spiritually.

We witnessed a huge turnout at the medical camp. We saw close to 1000 needy patients a day—not something we usually see and experience in Singapore. Many of them suffered from malnutrition, infectious diseases and other environmental illnesses. To reach this rural village of Basauti (comprising mainly of the Tharu tribe), we needed to travel for an hour on bumpy, unpaved and muddy roads through padi fields, from our hotel in Dhangadhi. Despite the inclement weather, we could see the patience and endurance of the villagers queuing for hours just to consult the doctors. The entire medical camp was held in a school compound and was organized by the local authority, together with our local church planter and New Life NGO.

A STUDENT AND A SERVANT OF THE LORD

BY NICOLE YEO, YAYP

When I was in my final year of studies for my bachelor's degree in English Literature, I was at the crossroads of what I wanted to write for my final year project. 10,000 words was a daunting number to write and it had to be a topic I was passionate about that I was so willing and ready to fight for and protect. I did not want to simply spend a year doing research on a topic that had already been written about over and over again. I wanted to use my research as a means to educate and inform people about a contemporary problem in the world. I wanted to write a paper that would shed light on the sufferings of the people that God loved so dearly. My project discussed how Syrian artists employed art as a means to communicate their sufferings and trauma resulting from the seven-year Syrian conflict.

The Lord had affirmed me of my decision when He spoke very clearly to me through the song, Make a Difference. The lyrics were, "Won't you Lord take a look at our hearts. Mould it, refine it as You set us apart. We want to run to the altar and catch the fire to stand in the gap between the living and the dead." As individuals with war trauma, the dead constantly haunt these Syrian artists and they live in the shadows of fear. The Lord invited me to let Him do a work in my heart to love this group of people who were in pain and to be the bridge for the Lord to do His work of love in them.

I am thankful to the Lord for granting me the opportunity to visit Lebanon for seven weeks in preparation for my project as well as to explore ministries there and to fellowship with Syrian friends.

They had taught me a lot about their culture and shared stories of how they experienced the war. I also witnessed how children were growing up with trauma and had no understanding of what a peaceful home looked and felt like and that broke my heart. Through my research and writing process, the Lord had taught me about the sufferings that the lost are experiencing and how they are struggling to cope in a world that is broken and where all is hopeless. I believe that through the blessing of education, my heart and mind was attuned to be curious and hungry in learning about God's world. It was my dedication since my first year in university to challenge myself in being creative with how I can glorify Him through my projects and submissions.

Today, I have made the decision to pursue a Masters in Art Therapy to serve the Lord through serving those suffering from trauma. I believe that the Lord shares the secrets and mysteries of His heart with those who have a willing and curious heart and are ready to obey Him. I feel very privileged to be on this lifelong journey of exploring His heart for His people and the nations.

A MISSIONAL FAMILY TRIP TO TANJUNG UBAN

BY ANGELA CHONG

‘Then he said to his disciples, “The harvest is plentiful but the workers are few.”

Two months before our missions trip, I saw a vision—in Tanjung Uban, the harvest was plentiful but the harvesters were few. My vision was confirmed when, on that very same night, one of the pastors shared about Matthew 9:37 at J333. My prayers were answered when I asked the Lord to send not just me, but my husband and children as well, to go forth into that land and serve as a family.

During the trip, a motorcycle fell on my son, Gidon, but he escaped without any injuries. During debrief and sharing that day, Gidon thanked God for protecting him. From that incident, Gidon learnt to be thankful to God! I, too, am thankful to God for His protection over Gidon.

Matthew 5:13-16 was the anchor scriptures for this trip—we are the salt and light. We wanted to encourage the believers there to practise missional living. To get to know the local church members better, we had the privilege of doing home visitations. As we interacted with the families, we noticed that there were absent fathers in the families. Many husbands were not interested to attend church, while some were working in another city. The women shared about their struggles with having to care for their children, family and finances, hence having difficulty keeping up with their faith.

Surprisingly and delightfully on the following day, many fathers came for the Sunday Service! The children came in their Sunday best and prayed and worshipped God in a powerful way! I sensed a hunger deep within them to want to know more about God and to learn more about the Bible. I prayed for youth leaders to be raised up from among these children to lead this Joshua Generation.

Having experienced this, I really want to encourage fathers and youth from Grace Assembly to go to Tanjung Uban to make an impact on the families there. These people need mentors to raise them up to be the harvesters for the Tanjung Uban Community. Would you be willing to go?

“Our Lord’s spirit is upon all of you. Now there will be a great outpouring of His spirit and spiritual awakening will take place in the hearts of the people of Tanjung Uban.” This was the word that was released from our trip intercessor back home on the morning of our departure to Tanjung Uban. Praise the Lord for this word and how it has been fulfilled!

BOOK REVIEWS

LET THE NATIONS BE GLAD by John Piper

In his typical straightforward fashion, John Piper pins down the root of the lack of zeal for missions – “Where the passion for God is weak, zeal for missions will be weak.” He exhorts churches to kindle a fervent desire to declare His glory among the nations by making much more of the King. “When the glory of God Himself saturates our preaching and teaching and conversation and writings, and when He predominates above our talk of methods and strategies and psychological buzzwords and cultural trends, then the people might begin to feel that He is the central reality of their lives and that the spread of His glory is more important than all their possessions and all their plans.”

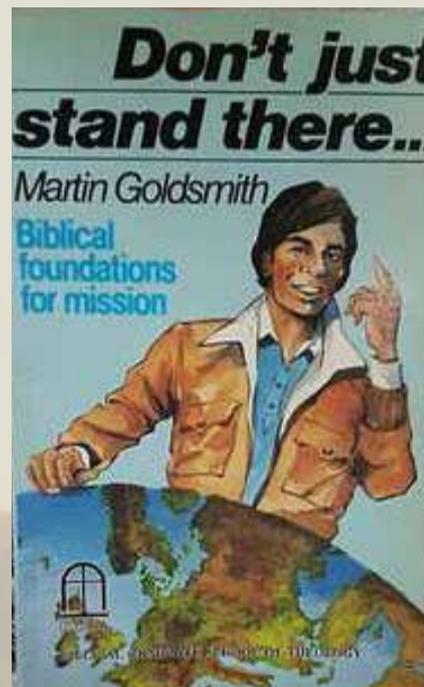

Do we see that “all of life is war?” John Piper reminds us to reflect on our lifestyle and to adopt a wartime mentality. He asks, “Where is the risk-taking, the launching out on God alone?” And the answer, according to him, is that it has been “swallowed up in a peace-time mentality.” Piper did extensive research on missionaries and inspires readers with exemplary Christians like David Brainerd, a missionary to the Indians in New Jersey, who travailed in his soul for the glory of God to come; and Charles Wesley who went “outside the camp” to spend time in jail with prisoners on Death Row.

“Afflictions are our vocation, whether we are missionaries or not.” The author points out that suffering is to be expected in the Christian life, a much-needed reminder in an age when the prosperity gospel is making its rounds. Under the heading, “The Inertia of Ease, the Apathy of Abundance,” one insightful gem offered by the author is that one cannot show the preciousness of a person by being happy with his gifts. What proves that the giver is precious is the glad-hearted readiness to leave all his gifts to be with him. This is also why suffering is so central to the mission of the church.

Those amongst us who are senior in years may want to note Piper’s advice under the heading, “‘Senior Discounts’ Are for Missionary Travel.” How many of us Christians look forward to a life of ease and travelling upon retirement? To Piper, this is the world’s substitute for heaven, since they do not believe that there will be one beyond the grave. “Eternal rest and joy after death is an irrelevant consideration. What a strange reward for a Christian to set his sights on!” he exclaims.

Here is an anecdote from the book to end off. An ageing Christian once objected to John G. Paton’s plan to go as a missionary to the South Sea Islands with the words, “You’ll be eaten by Cannibals!” To which he replied, “...it will make no difference to me whether I am eaten by Cannibals or worms (in death), and in the Great Day my resurrection body will arise as fair as yours in the likeness of our risen Redeemer.”

DON'T JUST STAND THERE By Martin Wordsmith

Though published in 1976, this book contains gems of insights, as well as sound and practical advice on bringing the good news to the ends of the earth that are still very relevant today. Goldsmith addresses his readers in a lively and direct way as he engages us in pertinent issues surrounding missionary work. This is evident in the chapter titles such as ‘Optional extra?’ to query the place of global missions in the church; ‘Chucked out or rotting’ to challenge followers of Christ to reach out to the lost, all the while going back to the biblical basis for outreach. In his words, “We are to pray to the Lord of the harvest that He will hurl out labourers; perhaps ‘kick out’ or ‘chuck out’ might be more apt translations.”

Hailing from the UK and having spent years in Southeast Asia, Goldsmith offers perspectives that are wide-ranging, and anecdotes from the mission fields that aptly illustrate his points. On whether churches from countries which badly need outreach work should send missionaries abroad, he said: “The little churches in Japan, surrounded though they are by the strong currents of materialism and Shinto-Buddhist thought, will find God’s love and blessing as they share their resources in men and money with the world beyond their borders.” On being salt and light, he cautioned against Christians taking the soft option, and encourage them to come out of their surroundings and be separate.

This book is highly recommended for people who are looking for a comprehensive understanding of biblical missions, with practical real-life examples drawn from countries close to us.

10 Essential Truths About Christian Giving

Very often, people ask, "What are the basic biblical principles for Christian giving?" Starting from March 2018 and over the next 10 issues of Grace Bulletin, we will provide 10 essential truths about Christian giving, one for each issue of Grace Bulletin. We hope these truths or principles will provide answers to that question as we contemplate our own giving to the Lord's church in response to the clear teaching of His word.

Essential truth No 8. The Bible teaches that the liberality of God's blessings to us is connected to the liberality of our Christian giving.

Though it may seem strange, both Jesus and Paul emphasize that there is a relation between our giving to the Lord and the Lord's giving to us. As Paul says in 2 Corinthians 9:6 "Now this I say, he who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully." About this matter J.A. Beet once said: "They who in giving think, not how little they can give, as they would if self-enrichment were the aim, but of benefits to be conferred, will receive back on the same principle. As they do to others, so God will act to them." Jesus reminds us of this in Matthew 6:4, where He teaches that our reward in giving comes from our heavenly Father. As someone once said: "The desire to be generous and the means to be generous both come from God."

SPECIAL SUPPORT FOR YOU A MINISTRY OF HELP:

You drag yourself out of bed, wondering if there are any other ways to sort out today's situation. Soon, calls start coming in. There is no intention to pick them up. You look at yourself in the mirror and ask, "Where are all the promises?" With barely any strength, you pray to God for deliverance and set off to work. The calls continue to come in non-stop. Your colleague drags you aside and tells you there were a few aggressive callers looking for you. Covering up for you is the best she could do for you. You know it can't be for long. Hopelessness and desperation set in. You make a few calls to friends and relatives. All are unanswered. You think, "Perhaps the cell group tonight," and quickly leave the workplace out of fear.

The cell group meeting ends. You speak to a cell group member about the situation. He prays for you. But can't do much. You begin to feel that relatives, colleagues, family members and even church members are deserting you. You feel rejected, isolated and all alone. Looking in the mirror, you cry out to God, "Where's the help in need?"

Financial debts. Something anybody will hardly wish to talk about. Yet something damaging enough to destroy one and even destroy the lives of loved ones. John 10:10 tells us the thief comes only to steal, kill and destroy. We are in this ministry long enough to witness how the enemy has used such situations to tear one and one's family up from within. We also witnessed how one can be driven to shake his fist at God and as a result, leave church and stray from the Kingdom.

However, John 10:10 also tells us that Jesus has come so we may have life and have it to the fullest. Today, Grace Assembly has provided a platform for us to help those burdened with financial situations. Our services include negotiation and restructuring of debt loans, financial counseling, gambling rehabilitation and helping in the reconciliation of family ties. Just like how Christ has saved us all from the bottom of our pits, our mission is to restore and rebuild God's people by the grace of God with no prejudice and with a non-judgemental attitude. So that we can continue to run with perseverance the race marked out for us, fixing our eyes on Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of faith. No matter what financial difficulties you may be having, we are just a phone call away.

第一支中文短宣队到柬埔寨 — 金边

1/9/18-7/9/18

上帝奇妙的安排，组成我们这支完整的队伍。9个成员中有4位是第一次参与短宣。

虽然出发前的筹备、充满著无数的未知？但是大家各尽其职，承担起不同的任务，积极的发挥恩赐、尽心竭力的配搭，充满著团队合一的精神，藉著上帝的爱，大家同心的服侍，非常的开心。整个过程都是那么的美好与享受，可以说是超越平凡的宣教。

竹笋村的服侍

替当地柬埔寨的孩子剪头发

看见一个个剪完头发儿童的笑脸，心中默默为他们祝福。

儿童布道事工 — 约90人

欢笑声不单充满在这些小朋友中，我们这队年过半百的叔叔和阿姨们更是完全被这些儿童感染，与他们一同游戏歌唱，做手工等，神的爱与众人同在。不曾真正做过儿童事工的我们，经历了祂奇妙的恩典，同心合力把欢乐带给儿童们，使他们从小敬畏耶和华，到老不偏离。

工厂布道会 — 约200工人

虽然当天只有一位信耶稣，但我们祷告种子要撒在好土中，有一天将会有更多的收成。

金边恩典堂的服侍

除了在崇拜中献诗歌、话剧演出，不同晚上教导各种技能，如裁剪、如何理发、烹饪、制作包包、男人面面谈等，当地教会还安排我们做探访，听见许许多多游子们离乡背井的心声，不同生命历程，坦诚的述说他们的家庭故事，做生意所面对的压力及所面对种种的挑战，他们的辛酸和挫折，我们迫切的为他们代祷，盼望他们在神的话语和圣灵中重新得力。

这次的宣教虽然没有经历使人病得医治的神迹奇事，但神却奇妙的派了祂的仆人，使躺了十几年的缝纫机死里复活；肯定有祂的旨意，神在行奇事，使他们在未来的日子可以继续用此缝纫机在不同的事工中被主使用，并吸引一些非信徒到教会去。

这次行程也看见当地教会对传福音的积极，因为柬埔寨在宗教方面还挺自由的，那里的宣教士所说的：这时候不传、不做神的工作，还等几时呢？在那里看到漂洋过海的华侨，那颗爱主的心，要使万民听见福音使命的负担，开办教会，支持教会做培训教育建立下一代认识耶稣。但是工人还是很缺乏，求主差遣更多的工人开拓更多福音管道继续努力撒种，兴旺福音。

腓1章:11

并靠著耶稣基督结满了仁义的果子，叫荣耀称赞归与神。
