

Knowing the Alpha and Omega

BY PS SCOTT TEY

Our Tamil-speaking brothers and sisters from Grace Assembly have been spending close to two months staying in touch with about fifteen migrant worker brothers. During the circuit breaker in the dormitories these migrant workers saw the love of Christ through the building of friendships and sharing of the gospel. We thank God for the opportunity to see 4 rededication and salvation for the migrant workers from India!

BY WILSON DEVARA, ALPHA COURSE VOLUNTEER

It is written in Jeremiah 17:7, "Blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord..." I thank the Lord for transforming me into a blessing of testimony. During the time of circuit breaker and a season where most of us were working from home, I thought how ministry could be possible with physical church buildings being shut down. It was during that time that I got to know about the online Tamil Alpha Course to engage people who have questions about the Christian faith.

It was my first time serving as I have not served in church before. I was really thankful for the opportunity to serve. As an introvert, I'm not a natural conversation starter. But when I share about God to those who do not know God, I feel happy that God is using me.

The Alpha Course has enabled me to talk openly to many people. It brings me peace and joy to be using my time for the Lord. People who genuinely want to know God are usually keen to receive answers to their questions about God. The Alpha Course answers important questions that leads seekers a step closer to the Lord. I am thankful that the Alpha Course has been my stepping stone to serve in the local church.

A Letter to Grace Assembly

BY SOOSAI XAVIER, MIGRANT WORKER FROM INDIA

Greetings, my loving brothers.

For the past few months, I have been going through a mental ordeal of multiple blood tests and swab tests as I was kept in isolation. My heart became burdened and I wondered what God's plans were for me while attending the Alpha Course.

With a heavy heart, I called Brother Peter Selvan and asked what can God's plan be in this situation? He prayed for me and also encouraged me to meditate on God's word.

Today, I have witnessed changes and managed to overcome my obstacles.

I can resume work and have been given another good place to stay in. Nowadays, as I go to work, I meditate on God's word which gives me new strength. The Alpha Course poured encouragement into my life. The volunteers are God-sent angels that bring good news to people who do not know about him. When a man is broken, words of comfort that come from a compassionate heart truly gives him new strength. All of you are doing a great service and please continue to do it with joy.

Let us continue to spread the gospel to those who do not know!
